Tim Herron (PGA TOUR Player and Four-time PGA TOUR Winner)

Tim Herron, 48, holds one of the longest and most consistent tenures on the PGA TOUR, having played for the last 25 years. Ranked 78th in career earnings, Tim has played in more than 500 PGA TOUR events and boasts four career victories, including: the 1996 Honda Classic, the 1997 LaCantera Texas Open, the 1999 Bay Hill Invitational, and the 2006 Bank of America Colonial. Prior to joining the PGA TOUR, Tim enjoyed a successful amateur career while playing at the University of New Mexico, including being named a member of the winning 1993 U.S. Walker Cup team, going undefeated in three matches.

Tim lives in Wayzata, Minnesota with his family, where he currently is preparing to join the PGA Champions Tour in a few years. In 2011, he was diagnosed with Dupuytren's Contracture, a progressive, potentially disfiguring hand condition[1] that affects both his sister and dad, also fellow golfers. Because of Tim's personal experience and family history with Dupuytren's, he has joined forces with Endo Pharmaceuticals and board-certified hand specialist Dr. Damon Adamany to raise awareness about this little-known hand condition[2] through the Facts on Hand educational campaign this year. Together, they'll talk about Dupuytren's Contracture and encourage people who think they might have it to make an appointment to see a hand specialist or hand surgeon to get a proper diagnosis.

---

[1] Dupuytren's Contracture. Mayo Clinic. http://www.mayoclinic.org/diseases-conditions/dupuytrens-contracture/basics/definition/con-20024378. Updated July 2016. Accessed July 2018.
[2] Dupuytren Disease and the Dupuytren Foundation. Dupuytren Foundation. https://dupuytrens.org/homepage/.