New York, October 29th, 2013 - /PRNewswire/ -- Best-selling cookbook author and successful restaurateur Guy Fieri hosts the new Food Network supermarket-themed cooking competition Guy's Grocery Games, which premiered Sunday, October 20th at 8pm ET/PT. Set in a grocery store, four talented chefs compete against each other through three cooking challenges, as they must navigate their way through the aisles adhering to a number of "real-world" culinary challenges to create tasty dishes. The chefs must rely on their improvisation, gamesmanship and culinary skills for a chance to win up to $20,000.

Guy's Grocery Games continues to challenge and push the competing chefs to the limits in a variety of games, including creating a dish in five ingredients or less, preparing a meal using only canned foods, or using ingredients only found in the frozen food section. The chefs will have to use all the tools in their arsenal to make it through these and other challenges. Take a peek behind the scenes from the premiere episode with footage of the games in action and an interview with Guy on the strategy of competing on the show.
