

LUMBER BEN

- I'm a laid back guy. I try to find humor in everything and I don't take myself or my lumbersexuality seriously.
- In my day job, I do IT support, so I mainly ask people if they've tried turning it off and back on again. I'm also an active 'Beard Club' member and love snowboarding and going to shows.
- I grew up on a hobby farm, so I remember watching Western movies where the men were manly and did stuff like chop wood. It looked like a good time, but I never thought I'd be doing it one day.

LUMBER JAMIN

- Admittedly, I am bit of a nerd. I often make random references to current and 90s pop culture or dungeons and dragons that hardly anyone gets.
- When it comes to my appearance, my beard is the most important. I'm an amateur beard competitor and the Secretary Treasurer for the Minneapolis Beard & Moustache Club.
- I grew up on a farm in Minnesota, but while I appreciate a good hard-day's work, I don't enjoy being dirty for that long.
