Monofocal IOLs are used to restore vision for one area of focus—usually distance. Reading glasses may still be needed.

Multifocal IOLs provide high-quality vision at multiple distances, with enhanced vision at a distinct distance customized to suit the patient’s lifestyle. They may increase freedom from glasses.

Extended depth of focus IOLs provide high-quality, continuous vision—from near to far and points in between—and may reduce the overall wearing of glasses.