

HGTV GREEN HOME GIVEAWAY 2012 OPENS FOR ENTRIES ON APRIL 12

HGTV Gives Environmentally Friendly Georgia Home A Showcase on Friday, April 13 at 9 p.m. ET/PT

New York, N.Y. [For Immediate Release--April 2, 2012] A beautiful, custom-built “green” home located just outside Atlanta in Serenbe, a community in Chattahoochee Hills, Georgia, is the cornerstone of the fifth annual HGTV Green Home Giveaway® that opens for entries beginning Thursday, April 12, at 9 a.m. ET. The giveaway, which runs through Friday, June 1, at 5 p.m. ET, will award one lucky, randomly-selected winner with the fully furnished 2,300-square-foot home plus $100,000 and a 2012 GMC® Terrain®.

Fans may enter the giveaway once per day on HGTV.com as well as once per day on HGTVRemodels.com. They also may enter as often as they wish by regular mail during the giveaway entry period. Online users can click through photo galleries, watch exclusive videos and take a 360-degree tour of the home at HGTV.com/greenhome.

HGTV will offer viewers an insider’s peek at the remarkable residence in the HGTV Green Home 2012 special on Friday, April 13, at 9 p.m. ET/PT. During the television special, HGTV co-hosts Monica Pedersen and Jamie Durie, host of The Outdoor Room and a featured judge in the network’s upcoming new series, The White Room Challenge, will take viewers on a visual tour of the home that includes a unique four-season Georgia room. Pedersen and Durie will be joined by House Planner Jack Thomasson and HGTV Green Home designer Linda Woodrum who will share tips about the home’s green construction and design.

Designed by Kemp Hall Studio, the 2012 HGTV Green Home is a modern family farmhouse with a design inspired by Southeastern culture and regional architecture. Located in an idyllic, eco-progressive community 25 minutes south of Atlanta’s Hartsfield-Jackson International airport, the home features an open floor plan with three bedrooms and 2.5 bathrooms. Constructed by FrontPorch Builders, the HGTV Green Home combines traditional beauty with 21st-century responsible living, showcasing construction and design elements such as solar panels and concrete countertops as well as recycled and recyclable rugs that are known to contribute to an energy efficient, cleaner and healthier living environment.

Fans can join the conversation about HGTV Green Home, vote on housewarming gifts or take a quiz to discover their “green home style” on HGTV.com. In addition, design and construction information is featured in HGTVRemodels.com’s Building of HGTV Green Home 2012 package and behind-the-scenes details are available on HGTV Facebook.

"The 2012 HGTV Green Home highlights a new dimension of green living that we haven't showcased with our previous homes," said Kathleen Finch, general manager, HGTV. "We want our viewers to discover how they can live harmoniously with nature but still have a connection to contemporary architecture and the latest in eco-friendly products and practices. It's amazing to find a home in a community as forward thinking and beautiful as Serenbe just minutes away from one of the most fabulous cities in the U.S."
