Jack D., from Sparta, New Jersey is the star of the first comic book in the Eisai-sponsored “Medikidz Explain Epilepsy” series, created in 2013. The comic book tells a fictional story based on the experiences of 14-year old Jack, who is navigating middle school while living with epilepsy. When Jack experiences a seizure after a basketball game, that threatens to leave him on the sidelines in the upcoming championship game, the Medikidz come to Jack’s aid. They give him an up-close and personal overview of what’s going on inside his body when he experiences a seizure and help him explain his condition to his coach and peers so they understand how it affects Jack.
