

T-MOBILE ARENA SETS SIGHTS ON SUPERIOR ENTERTAINMENT IN LAS VEGAS

LAS VEGAS – T-Mobile Arena, the centerpiece of a new entertainment district located between New York-New York and Monte Carlo opened April 6, elevating the Las Vegas experience with an exciting, new venue rivaling some of the best in the country.

An asset for the entire city to utilize, T-Mobile Arena allows Las Vegas to expand upon its current entertainment portfolio offering visitors and locals more options than in previous years. Built to accommodate a variety of entertainment and sporting events, including professional basketball and hockey, T-Mobile Arena is the largest arena in Las Vegas with 20,000 seats and a myriad of premium amenities. Those amenities include a wide range of VIP suites and seating; Hyde Lounge, the arena's exclusive nightlife venue located high above the event action; and a dynamic food and beverage program led by Levy Restaurants along with Tony Abou-Ganim, one of the country's most sought-after mixologists.

An arena of this size and with these amenities, located in the one of the most dynamic cities in the world, has caught the attention of some of the industry's top entertainers in addition to college and professional sports teams. George Strait, for example, is coming out of retirement and chose T-Mobile Arena for his exclusive engagements that begin in April. Additionally, Las Vegas is now under serious consideration for its first professional NHL team when the city previously did not have the infrastructure to support one.

Demonstrating the scope and flexibility of this venue, T-Mobile Arena will host the reunion of Guns N' Roses with two sold-out shows, George Strait's exclusive worldwide engagement "Strait to Vegas," Billy Joel's only show in Nevada in 2016, HBO's Championship Boxing featuring Canelo Alvarez vs. Amir Khan, Garth Brooks' multiple engagements, UFC 200 and the Professional Bull Riders Build Ford Tough World Finals, among many other events and concerts, all within the first several months of opening.

Great cities have great public spaces and Las Vegas is no exception. Rounding out the overall T-Mobile Arena experience is The Park and Toshiba Plaza that together create an overall neighborhood feel designed to appeal to Las Vegas' new generation of visitors who seek out immersive and engaging experiences.

Located directly outside of the arena, Toshiba Plaza is a two-acre outdoor entertainment space featuring two performance stages, large video screens and interactive content that will be programmed before, during and after arena events. The Park is an outdoor entertainment and dining district and serves as the gateway to T-Mobile Arena. Visitors to The Park can enjoy the beautiful desert landscape, take in public art, grab a bite to eat, enjoy live entertainment or the tried-and-true Vegas pastime of people watching.
