patient’s condition or his/her ability to perform daily activities. The patient should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Orthostatic Hypotension: The possibility of orthostatic hypotension exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Falls: Patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Body Temperature Regulation: The possibility of excessive fluid loss from sweating and fever exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Esophageal Dysmotility and Aspiration: The possibility of esophageal dysmotility and aspiration exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Orthostatic Hypotension: Patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Falls: Patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Body Temperature Regulation: The possibility of excessive fluid loss from sweating and fever exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Esophageal Dysmotility and Aspiration: The possibility of esophageal dysmotility and aspiration exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Orthostatic Hypotension: Patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Falls: Patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Body Temperature Regulation: The possibility of excessive fluid loss from sweating and fever exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.

Esophageal Dysmotility and Aspiration: The possibility of esophageal dysmotility and aspiration exists and patients should be advised to consult their health professional for further information.