

KOHLER Stillness Bath Turns Bathing into a Sanctuary

The freestanding bath provides an immersive, sensory experience

KOHLER, Wisconsin, USA – June 7, 2022 – Kohler, global leader in the design, innovation and manufacture of kitchen and bath products, puts focus back on bathing with the new Stillness Bath collection. The smart bath incorporates spa-like features that turn bathing into a sanctuary for self-care and well-being. With a design worlds away from ordinary, Stillness upgrades the bathing experience.

Inspired by Japanese forest bathing, the deep soak of Stillness promotes Zen-like relaxation. In Stillness, water, light, fog, and aromas converge to create an immersive journey of the senses designed to relax the mind, soothe the body and renew the spirit. Its clean, minimal exterior and ergonomic interior are surrounded by a wooden grate that creates a spa ecosystem in the home.

The Stillness Bath collection consists of four iterations: Soak Freestanding Bath, Smart Soak Freestanding Bath, Experience Freestanding Bath, and Infinity Experience Freestanding Bath. Each offering introduces new functionality and features. The Stillness Infinity Experience bath starts with water filling from the bottom of the basin, overflowing into the hinoki wood base to create a soothing, natural sound. Full spectrum lighting surrounds the bath, setting the mood for a relaxed state of mind. Fog then envelops the surface of the bath, immersing the user in a feeling of blissful relaxation. The user's own essential oils can be added to the bath's experience tower that emits the aromas to stimulate the sense.

Stillness Infinity and Experience baths offer preset experience journeys to promote a sense of overall wellbeing. The journeys take inspiration from the sense invoked by nature and allows the user to orchestrate specific sequences of light, fog, and aromas to immerse the senses and quiet the mind. Each element contributes to a fully immersive, sensory experience.
